The IBE has compiled this list of resources on global citizenship education to assist curriculum developers, researchers and practitioners. The first section focuses on global citizenship education and its relation to the curricula. Other sections include global citizenship and education, guides and tools, and reports and studies.

Most of the publications and documents are freely accessible online. Articles in publications such as the UNESCO-IBE journal, Prospects: Quarterly review of comparative education and other commercial publications are mostly accessible through services such as ProQuest and JSTOR. Direct access to the materials is indicated by the symbol: @

Global citizenship education (GCE) is one of the strategic areas of work for UNESCO's Education Programme (2014-2017) and one of the three priorities of the UN Secretary-General's Global Education First Initiative (GEFI) launched in September 2012.

“Global citizenship education aspires to be transformative. Grounded in the belief that the most effective defences of peace are built in the minds of men and women, it seeks to empower learners with the knowledge, skills, values and attitudes that are needed to forge more just and inclusive societies, capable of resolving existing and emerging global challenges.”

Unesco Education Sector 4 June 2014
